An Appeal to the Lovers of Baseball

The Mayville Amusement Company, composed of about twenty-five business men of this city, started out a little over a year ago to give Mayville a first-class baseball club, park, etc. They have dug down in their pocket-ets and spent about $2,500 of their hard-earned money. Partially through bad management in the first part of the season, the club wound up the season about $2,000 in the hole. These debts remain unpaid. This company does not feel able to dig down in their pockets again and make this up. Our present manager has about twenty-five star ball players signed up for the 1912 team and they are ready to report April 10th. This means an additional expense of about $500 for traveling bill, making the club $2,500 in the hole up to the opening game.

Now, it is up to the citizens of Mayville to make up this deficiency. In a few days a committee of baseball lovers will call on you and be prepared to give liberally and at the same time get value received for your money.

STRENUOUS

As Well as a Courteous Gentleman and Distinguished Jurist

Notice of the death of Judge Frank Hord in Indiana recalls to mind a case in which he was Attorney in Court at Columbus, Ind., a good many years ago. A couple of Kentuckians, who knew the Judge had retained his services in the prosecution of a Dutchman of that city for a sum of money due them. The Dutchman was rather belligerent in his attitude all through the case and especially when judgment was returned against him. He finally became so unbearable that Judge Hord interfered and benched the gentleman in a way that was both amusing and satisfactory to his Kentucky friends. The Judge was a most courteous, elegant gentleman as well as a distinguished jurist and attorney.

A. Swift, Pastor of the M. E. Church, South, at Millersburg preached last night in his stead.

There were six conversions and reclamations and several others asked for prayers.
Grant blessings are coming from these services. God's spirit is doing a gracious work among the people.

Dr. Mann will be back today and will preach tonight. Don't fail to hear him. His messages are powerful and the Holy Spirit is attending them. Every one is invited to these services and all Christians are asked to pray that gracious results may continue to come from the meetings.

FOR PRESIDENT,
WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT.

ACCORDING to the Crop Improvement committee, with headquarters in Chicago, America's corn crop for 1912 is in considerable danger—even before it is planted. The seed corn this year is in an unusually bad condition, says the committee. Much of it is

The Corn Crop Endangered?

immature, damp and frozen, and it will not germinate.

In order to impress upon the growers of corn the importance of planting seed that will grow, the committee is engaged in a nation-wide campaign to have the corn growers make germination tests of the seed corn. "No man can select corn by looking at it. He can never be sure of that which will grow," explains the committee, in an interesting circular it is distributing broadcast, asking that careful tests of all seed corn be made.

While experienced farmers may look upon this "call to arms" as a bit hysterical and class it with the annual report of the ruin of peach crops, it should have a good effect. If the corn growers of the country realize the importance of doing all they can to prevent any such dire calamity as is suggested, the coming crops may not be so far below the average as the Crop Improvement committee now fears.—Times Star.

There are few institutions today that have not felt the influence of the reformer, but Kentucky is possibly the first state in the union to go to radical lengths in efforts to reform the lobbyists. The lower house at Frankfort has passed a bill requiring that all lobbyists except those representing public institutions must register with the Secretary of State specifying what legislation they favor or oppose. Within sixty days after the legislature adjourns there must also be filed with the Secretary of State the amount of money spent by each man and to whom it was paid. A heavy fine and disbarment as a lobbyist is the penalty provided for violation of the law.

It is safe to say that no professional lobbyist had anything to do with framing the bill. Rather it may be relied upon that each member of the fraternity used his utmost influence to defeat the measure. One can imagine a confirmed lobbyist arguing that the proposed law is class legislation, etc.

Evidently the Kentuckians are determined to tame those appurtenances of the State capitol, for there is every prospect that the bill will become a law. Such a law cannot help but have the desired effect.

Had there been such a statute in Ohio last spring when the wholesale corruption that existed in the Ohio legislature was discovered many men directly responsible for the bribe giving might have been punished and prevented from ever again lobbying in Columbus. A law that merely provides for the giving and taking of a bribe is in many cases not sufficiently strong; it cannot take the place of the lobbyist law. If the Kentucky bill passes it is certain that corruption such as is alleged have existed at the Ohio capitol last year never obtain in Frankfort.—Commercial

The Washington Post finds that a Southern Democrat with a flock of goats makes as good a protectionist as a Wyoming wool grower.

GRADUALLY becomes clearer and better defined the immensity of the commerce that will be created in all the region drained by the Mississippi when the Panama Canal unites the oceans and makes of the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean Sea the rendezvous of the shipping of the world.

New Orleans and the Panama Canal.

The inland waterways of this great valley should be placed in the very highest state of efficiency in order to allow the residents of the central portion of the country the full advantages they should have for transportation to and from the sea, via New Orleans.

Through that port Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Louisville, St. Louis, Chicago, Kansas City, Memphis and all the other cities able to reach the waterway that leads to the Gulf will contribute to the trade and in making New Orleans one of the great commercial ports of the world.

As Calcutta is to India, as Alexandria was to Egypt, so will New Orleans be to the valley of the Mississippi, but to a degree that will compare with Hamburg or even with London in the volume, the variety and the value of the commerce that will pass in and out of the Mississippi jetties.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

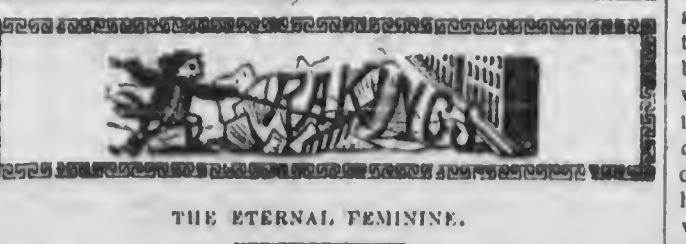

UNDER the new primary election law there will be no primary held prior to August, 1913, except in districts or counties where action already has been taken by party committees.

The New Primary Law. Candidates for county offices are making announcements already all over the State, though the election will not take place until November, 1913, and the primary cannot be held prior to August, 1913.

Persumably this new law will end the complaints about snap primaries and crooked conventions, of which a great deal has been heard in past years. Under the new dispensation there will be no conventions and it will not be possible for snap primaries to be ordered. The political parties will select their tickets on the same day everywhere. Republicans will take no part in making Democratic nominations and vice versa.

There was never much to commend in the county mass convention. It is doubtful if it had a single redeeming virtue. There is no doubt that it had a thousand faults and that it was fruitful of political iniquity. The snap primary was almost as bad, though the voter sometimes got some sort of a run for his money. Whether he did or did not the results were uniformly the same.

The general primary may not prove to be all that its earnest advocates hope for, but it will unquestionably be a vast improvement on past practices. The voter at least will have a chance to vote his honest sentiments, something that was frequently denied him by the "smooth boys" who engineered the mass conventions and the snap primaries.—Courier Journal.

"Don't you know what you want to be when you grow up, Anna?" asked the teacher.

"Yes, I know," replied the little girl, "but I know how to draw it. I

Out After Blackbirds

By John Philip Orth

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

Miss Clara Pagent was an artist. She painted landscapes on canvas—that is, she had painted a single one, and her grandmother, who had brought her up from the age of nine to nineteen, had raised her hands above her head and exclaimed: "How beautiful! There isn't an artist in all America who could have done better. It's just as natural as if I stood looking at the real thing. My, but I almost expect that cow to throw up her head and bawl out! Don't you ever think of getting married, Clara. You just keep right on painting such pictures as that."

The scene had been taken from Thornapple hill, half a mile from the old red farm house. There was a spotted cow in the foreground, together with a stump or two. Then there were bushes and trees, and in the perspective, as if one were looking through a joint of stovepipe, was a duck sailing on a pond. If not told it was a duck it might have been taken for the eagle that flapped his wings and screamed at the battle of Bunker Hill.

If the cow had thrown up her head and bellowed it would have been with pain. Her horns were longer than her legs, and her tail would have reached around a haystack. The trees and bushes seemed to have been sawed out for the occasion, and the greensward was such as no herbivorous animal ever yet grazed on. Oh, yes, it was an old painting all right, and it would be a mean person that would criticize it to the face of the artist or grandmother.

It was the artist herself who found just a teeny-weeny bit of fault. She discovered that one of the eyes of the cow looked up and the other down, and this didn't seem quite natural. The picture was taken back to Thornapple hill for a closer study. The spotted cow could always be found there, and it would not take long to catch her true attitude. The painting was on the easel and the artist was all ready when the cow stepped out from behind the bushes. So did something else, but while the cow faced the artist the something else advanced from the rear.

Mr. Burt Delevan was not a landscape painter. He was just the junior partner in a real estate firm in the city and was taking a fall vacation on the farm of his brother and shooting a few blackbirds by way of diversion. It was quite by accident that he ran across the artist, but it was rather impudent of him to sneak close up and scan the picture for two long minutes, and certainly impudent to observe:

"I know you mean that for a cow in the foreground, but—"

"Sir!" exclaimed the young lady, as she sprang up in such confusion that the easel was overturned and the cow started to walk away.

"I beg your pardon," said Mr. Delevan, as the cap came off, "but I spoke unconsciously."

"Oh, you did. Then you are an artist yourself?"

"No, not exactly. That is—"

"That is, you have seen a cow?"

"Yes."

"And the cow you saw was not like this cow, and therefore you criticize?"

"But, miss, you see—"

Yes, she saw that he had made a blunder and was confused over it, and that her cold stare at him was troubling him more than a dose of bird shot. He had sneaked up and was an interloper, and no one had all the advantage. He made no further defence, but retreated with gun in one hand and cap in the other. A look of disdain followed him, but he was only out of sight when Miss Clara began to have her doubts about that cow. To doubt the cow was to doubt the duck and the trees. Grandma had pilled on the praise, but she might not be a critic. In ten minutes the horrible doubt creased the artist's mind—was he a born artist, or was she only a

had been told. "You say he sneaked upon you?"

"Yes."

"And began right off about the cow?"

"Yes."

"Didn't wait to introduce himself?"

"No."

"Aid stammered and blushed with guilt as he sneaked away?"

"I think it was with guilt."

"Of course it was. Clara, that man had poisoned somebody's well and was feeling from justice. Don't you pay any attention to what he said. That painting is going to have a $2 frame and hang in the parlor opposite 'Napoleon Crossing the Alps.'"

"But haven't I got the cow's eyes wrong?" asked the artist. "Should one of them be looking up and the other down?"

"They should, dearie. That's what first made me think you were a born artist. I've watched cows a thousand times. They always keep one eye on the grass and roll the other up as if thinking heaven for the fodder. Don't you worry about her eyes."

"But what was the young man going to criticize if I hadn't stopped him?"

"Land only knows! When a person is mean enough to poison a family well you can't tell what he will say or do next. At first I thought the cow's tail might be too long, but then I remembered that it must be in fly time she was painted. You just chirk right up and forget that villain. If I was you I'd start a new picture tomorrow."

But Miss Clara didn't. There were several doubts in her mind now, and she didn't agree with her grandmother about the young man being a well-poisoner and an unwholesome villain. As she remembered his face it was attractive and interesting, with not a line of villainy in it. Thus when she went forth next afternoon it was not to sketch, but to think as she walked. She didn't climb Thornapple hill, but skirted it, and by and by she came to a brook and turned to the left to look for a crossing.

Mr. Burt Delevan was again looking for blackbirds. His encounter with the artist on Thornapple hill the day before had left him rather humiliated. He therefore strolled another way, yet all the time hoping for another meeting. He had his nerve with him now and he was sure he could put the case in such a light that he would be forgiven.

"Say! Say! Help! Help!"

Mr. Delevan threw aside his gun and plunged through a thicket to find himself on the bank of a creek. Standing in the shallow water, which reached her knees and was bubbling higher, was the girl artist.

"It's quicksand, you see," she explained, as the young man stood staring.

Being in the real estate business, which includes all kinds of soils, Mr. Delevan knew just what to do in case of quicksand, and he did it. It was a hard tug, but at length a muddled and bedraggled figure stood on the bank beside him. Not a word had been spoken during the rescue. None was spoken now as the girl was assisted home and left in the arms of her grandmother at the back door.

It was two weeks later before there was any conversation a stenographer would have thought worth her pen-hooks. Then Miss Clara asked her grandmother:

"Do you think I will ever make an artist?"

"No, I don't," was the prompt answer. "That Mr. Delevan has called here seven times since he hauled you out of the quicksand, and if I know anything about apple sass it won't be more'n seven times more before both of you will be so head over heels in love that painting will go to pot!"

TELLS OF BABY CROP FAMINE

Bishop of London, Who is a Bachelor, Complains of Prevalent Infant Shortage.

The inconsistency of the outcry raised by the bishop of London, who is a bachelor, over a shortage not in the turnip or the carrot crop, but the current crop of British babies, is made a part of the subject of a satire screened in London Opinion by James Douglas. He has tried unavailingly to adapt a line of his own.

"Who pleads for weddings should himself be wed, to Dr. Samuel Johnson's well known line,

"Who drive fat oxen should himself be fat."

and acknowledges that following St. Paul there have been many estimable bachelors and he has given up the idea of proclaiming a holy war against bachelors. He says: "I looked back to the first baby and I looked forward to the last, and I perceived the humor of the good bishop. What is one bishop among so many human beings? His anxiety is like the anxiety of a drop of water in the ocean that is obsessed by the fear that the ocean is drying up. It is like the anxiety of a grain of sand that is tortured by the dread that the sands of the sea are coming to an end. I swept infinity with a gesture and laughed at his grace. It is delightful to contrast his worthy panic with the interminable tide of life. Canute is simply not in it. Neither king nor bishop can help nature with her job. One might as well strike matches to lighten the labors of the sun."

A MESSAGE TO WOMEN

A Paterson, N. J. young woman, Miss Elizabeth Bushloper, has written a message to the women of America that will be of great value to those who heed it. She says:

"Every spring for some years I have been debilitated, having general weakness and feeling tired and worn-out all the time. This spring I determined I would fight it off with Vinol. Vinol has done all that was claimed for it. It has given me new strength and vigor, I can eat heartily and my sleep is light and refreshing."

"I wish every tired out woman could know what great good Vinol would do her." Spring is the most trying time of the year for most people, and it is well to know that Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron remedy without oil, is the most valuable spring medicine."

Its blood enriching and strength creating effects are just what one needs, and as we will certainly give back your money if you are not satisfied with Vinol, you ought to get a bottle right away. John C. Pecor, Druggist, Maysville, Ky.

Winter's Record

Detroit Free Press.

Summing it all up we decide that the present winter is entitled to the championship belts for all classes:

It is first in wind velocity contests.

First in coal consumption.

First, second and third in endurance feats.

First in water main hoisting.

First in closing open plumbing.

Maysville to Be Tobacco Center

Two Large Warehouses Will Be Erected With Largest Floor Space in Kentucky

At a meeting of the Directors of the Farmers' and Planters' Warehouse Co. here, the building committee was directed to secure plans for another warehouse, to be erected immediately West of the Planters' warehouse. The new house is to be as large as all the other loose leaf houses here combined is to be of steel, stone, brick and concrete, and is to have a railroad switch from the L. and N. running into it, enabling tobacco to be unloaded from the cars right into the warehouse.

The Independent Tobacco Warehouse Company has architects at work on plans for a new building that will be double the size of the one it now has, which will also be fireproof. With these additions completed this city will have more tobacco floor space under roof than any other city in the State, and will make this place practically the center of the Burley market.

Work is to begin immediately upon the acceptance of the plans and all will be completed by next fall, in time to handle the business of next season.

It is also understood that the Burley Society will erect a large stemmy this summer.

Saloons in Ohio.

The action of the Ohio constitutional convention in making provision to limit the maximum number of retail liquor establishments in Ohio to one saloon for each 500 inhabitants, materially will decrease the number of saloons in the Buckeye State. According to a recent compilation by the United States Brewers' Association, based upon the 1911 census, Ohio has one saloon for each 398 population. On a basis of population, California leads with one saloon for each 132 persons with Montana a close second, with one for each 135 persons, while Mississippi has the least number with one for each 2000 inhabitants.

Ohio now has 11,969 retail liquor dealers, with a population of 33 per dealer.

Portsmouth now has 61 saloons and this number would be reduced to 47.—Portsmouth Times.

FROM THE NORTH COUNTRY
Where the Winters are Cold and the Snows Deep

Writing from the vicinity David H. from made famous, a man says that he was an habitual coffee drinker, and, although he knew it was doing him harm, (tea is equally harmful, because it contains caffeine—the same drug found in coffee) was too obstinate to give it up, till all at once he went to pieces with nervousness and insomnia, loss of appetite, weakness and a generally used-up feeling, which practically unfitted him for his arduous occupation, and kept him on a couch at home when his duty did not call him out.

"While in this condition Grape-Nuts food was suggested to me and I began to use it. Although it was in the middle of winter and the thermometer was often below zero, almost my entire living for about six weeks of severe exposure was on Grape-Nuts food with a little bread and butter and a cup of hot water, till I was well enough to make Postum my table beverage."

"After the first two weeks I began to feel better and during the whole winter I never lost a trip on my mail route, frequently being on the road 7 or 8 hours at a time.

"The constant marvel to me was how a person could do the amount of work and endure the fatigue and hardship as I did, on so small amount of food. But I found my new ration so perfectly satisfactory that I have continued them—using both Postum and Grape-Nuts at every meal, and often they comprised my entire meal.

"All my nervousness, irritability and insomnia have disappeared and healthy, natural sleep has come back to me. But what has been perhaps the greatest surprise to me is the fact that with the benefit to my general health has come a remarkable improvement in my eyesight.

"If a good appetite, good digestion, good eyesight, strong nerves and an active brain are to be desired, I can say from my own experience, use Grape-Nuts and Postum. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Read the little book, "The Road to Well-Villa," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true and full of human interest.

A WORD WITH WOMEN

VALUABLE ADVICE FOR MAYSVILLE READERS

Many a woman endures with noble patience the daily misery of backache, pains about the hips, blue, nervous spells, dizziness and urinary disorders, hopeless of relief because she doesn't know what is the matter.

It is not true that every pain in the back or hips is trouble "peculiar to the sex." Often when the kidneys get congested and inflamed, such aches and pains follow.

You can tell it is kidney trouble if the secretions are dark colored, contain sediment; the passages are too frequent or scanty. Then help the weakened kidneys. Don't expect them to get well alone.

Dono's Kidney Pills have won the praise of thousands of women. They are endorsed at home—Read this Maysville woman's convincing statement:

Mrs. Sam Neal, 407 West Second street, Maysville, Ky., says: "Although I have never used Dono's Kidney Pills myself, I can recommend them. One of my family had a great deal of trouble from his back and kidneys. Dono's Kidney Pills made him entirely better and he always praises them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Dono's—and take no other.

The Atlanta police have been unable to throw any further light on the mysterious shooting of Eugene H. Grace.

Dogs Slaughter Sheep

Dogs got into Dr. C. W. Mothers' flock of sheep near Millersburg, last week, and killed seven ewes. The night before they killed one out of the same flock.

Within the past ten days and nights dogs have played havoc with sheep and lambs in Montgomery county, getting into the flocks and killing and mauling over 100, causing heavy loss to sheep men. The cure travel in packs and make their attacks late at night. The loss sustained from the cure in that county will reach over $1,000.

Farmers in the Northern portion of Nicholas county report that foxes are playing havoc with the young lambs.

CORN PRIZES

For Colored People Offered By Lincoln Institute

Lincoln Institute will again offer four cash prizes of $50, $25, $15 and $10 for the best measured acres of corn grown by colored Kentucky farmers on land owned by themselves.

The offer last year was made so late that there were few entries, and only two prizes were paid, to John Williams and Harry Lane, both of Mason county.

Their record was very fine.

Those wishing to be enrolled should write to Lincoln Institute, Simpsonville, Ky., for directions.

FULL SUFFRAGE

May Be Given Ohio Women By New Constitution

Far-reaching changes in the organic law of the State will be submitted to the voters of Ohio next fall for their adoption or rejection. Delegates to the fourth constitutional convention of the State, now in session estimated that probably thirty amendments to the charter of the Commonwealth would be submitted.

In the nine weeks of deliberation by the convention since January 9th four important propositions have been approved for submission.

Chief among the amendments so far proposed is one providing for woman's suffrage. This amendment, if ratified by the people, would give to women full and equal enfranchisement with men.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by Local Applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; unless it is treated by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
